The Office of Research Administration is offering a course for Clinical Research Coordinators, Principal Investigators, Department Research Financial Administrators and anyone else involved in development and review of clinical research budgets. The course reviews processes for budget development for research proposals submission, budget review and working with ORA on securing appropriate funding for externally-funded agreements. It also includes budgeting procedures for internally-funded clinical research. Some hands-on tools will be demonstrated and provided to all participants.

The course includes an extended Q&A portion.

At the end of the session, participants will:

1. Recognize what their role and the institution's role and responsibilities are when developing a budget;
2. Understand the components of building a clinical research budget;
3. Know the differences between clinical research study budgets and;
4. Recognize the institutional costs/rates and resources available.
