

Developing Study Budgets in Clinical Research

October 13, 2016

The Office of Research Administration (ORA) is offering a two-hour course for Clinical Research Coordinators, Principal Investigators, Department Research Financial Administrators and anyone else involved in development and review of clinical research budgets.

The course reviews processes for budget development for research proposals submission, budget review and working with ORA on securing appropriate funding for externally-funded agreements. It also includes budgeting procedures for internally-funded clinical research. Some hands-on tools will be demonstrated and provided to all participants. The course includes an extended Q&A portion.

The next class is being offered October 19, from 2:00 p.m. – 4:00 p.m., at the Miller School of Medicine, Clinical Research Building, Room 1381. Registration for this class is through ULearn. Search keyword “study budgets.”
