ClinCard Debit Program is Expanding

The Office of Research Administration (ORA) has managed the ClinCard reloadable debit card with limited studies for the last 2 years. The program is now available to all qualifying University of Miami research studies.

The ClinCard can be used to reimburse research study participants paid from UM accounts and is the preferred method for reimbursement. No usage other than research participant payments is available at this time.

We have scheduled information sessions to explain the program, along with guidelines and rules. We will be answering questions and accepting applications for participation. The information sessions will be followed by a hands-on training workshop.

To register, please go to ULearn and search for ClinCard. Six (6) sessions are being offered.
